Yesterday afternoon the side wall of No. 95, Queen's road West, one of the houses gutted by the recent fire near the Koshing Theatre, suddenly came down, and fell into Chung Sau-laus. The wall had been allowed to stand after the fire, being deemed safe, but it must have been much injured. There were several workmen employed in the vicinity, and it is extremely fortunate that none of them sustained any serious injury. There were some narrow escapes.

The statement previously published to the effect that the British steamer Lorne on her last voyage to Hongkong had passed a number of men on a capsized junk without stopping to render them any assistance is, we are glad to find, inaccurate. BONHAM ROAD TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." Sir. -As the account given in your issue of to-day of my rather unfortunate experience yestorday is inaccurate, I am sure you will pardon my writing to correct it and also to warn the public against the peculiar strategy resorted to by the thieves. I was suddenly seized round the throat from behind by, as I judge from the force of his grasp, a powerful fellow, and almost simultaneously a unatch was made at my watch chain, which broke away leaving the watch safe in my pocket. I struck the man who hold me several blows over my shoulder with my fist and also with the and of the stick, and I believe I must have marked him. All the time he was doing his best to strangle me. Another Chineman (I believe the third man, as the fellow with the chain had most probably bolted) now came in front of me and pointed a revolver in my face either with the intention of making me desist striking at the man behind or in order to I have attended all the meetings of the company accounts due and bills owing. My assulant from the rear, with a violent effort, pulled me back on the road and also departed. I ought no doubt to have followed the last man as he was the nearest, but there. was not much time to consider, and instead of doing this I ran some yards after the fellow with the pistol, but after being half choked was not in condition to pursue him up the hillside. As. I saw I could not catch him, I flung my stick as a parting shot and missed. The whole affair was over in less than two minutes. Never supposing that there was the slightest risk of being robbed on a public road in broad day ight, I of course wan quite off my grand. There was no demand to surrender my watch or anything of the kind. I saw a constable (Indian) just afterwards and pointed out the course taken by the Chinaman who came in front of me. The man behind I never saw, but most certainly felt. The whole affair was evidently managed by experienced thieves, the duty of the fellow with the revolver being to cover the retrest. My only loss was the watch chain.-I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
